Community, State & Guard remember Maj. Gen. Carl Wallace

Excerpts by Jennifer Horton, Wilson Post

The Tennessee National Guard lost its longest serving Adjutant General on August 6th, 2003. Major General Carl D. Wallace served as Tennessee's Adjutant General for 16 years encompassing three administrations. He was named as the 70th adjutant general of Tennessee on Jan. 18, 1975.

For many older Guard veterans, MG Wallace was the face of the Tennessee National Guard. A true soldier's soldier, MG Wallace was at his best when visiting, talking and working with troops in the field.

General Wallace was born on May 20, 1931, in Indian Mound, TN. He graduated from Stewart County High School, then attended Austin Peay State College, the University of Tennessee at Nashville and earned a bachelor's degree from Cumberland University in Lebanon. His major military courses include the Engineer Officer Basic Course, 1960; Engineer Officer Career Course, 1964; Command and General Staff College, 1974; National Security Management Course, Industrial College of the Armed Forces, 1975; and the Senior Reserve Component Officer Course, Army War College, 1979.

General Wallace began his military career by enlisting in the U.S. Air Force in January 1951. He later transferred to the U.S. Army and attended Artillery Officer Candidate School at Fort Sill, OK, where he was commissioned a second lieutenant. His first assignment was in the 47th Division Artillery, Fort Rucker, AL. During the Korean War he served with the 189th Field Artillery Battalion, 45th Infantry Division, (Thunderbirds) until December 1953.

In July 1955, he left the Army Reserve to become a company commander in the newly organized 194th Engineer Battalion of the Tennessee Army National Guard.

General Wallace was the editor of The Lebanon Democrat, a daily newspaper published in Lebanon, TN prior to his appointment as Adjutant General. His newspaper career began with the Clarksville, TN Leaf Chronicle, and he was editor of the Waverly, TN News Democrat for 10 years.

Officials in business and government in throughout Tennessee offered their thoughts on the death of Maj. Gen. Wallace to Jennifer Horton of the Wilson World.

Col. (Ret.) Bill Wynns, of Lebanon, served as Gen. Wallace's chief of staff during Desert Storm and Desert Shield in 1991. "He was a soldier's general," Wynns said. Gen. Wallace made it a point to learn the names of as many of the personnel as he could who were serving in the National Guard.

"We all recognize the contributions Carl made to the state and the local community," said attorney Robert Rochelle. "He and I had frequent contact for almost 30 years." Rochelle is a former state senator and also served as county attorney.

"I'll remember his sense of humor," Rochelle said, adding whenever "the questions were harder than usual" or a situation was tense, "he could find something to cheer about. He could always find something funny. That's a talent a lot of folks don't have."

Lebanon Mayor Don Fox noted, "Carl Wallace was a pillar of the community. Lebanon, Wilson County and the State of Tennessee have lost one of its finest ambassadors."

Wilson County Mayor Robert Dedman said, "I thought a whole lot of the general. He was very dedicated to his job, and he loved the people here in Wilson County.

"When we created the (Wilson County) Sports Authority, he was one of my top choices. He served it well." Gen. Wallace chaired the Sports Authority.

"I'm sorry to see him go," Dedman said.

"He was a good friend," said State Rep. Stratton Bone.

He added he served with the general in the Guard and noted his concern for the troops. "He was always concerned about their well-being. He was always upbeat. He'll be missed. He contributed a lot to Lebanon and Wilson County."

Sixth District Congressman Bart Gordon said, "He did much for Wilson County and our state and he is recognized nationally for the many contributions he made in strengthening our country's National Guard."

"Carl Wallace always treated everyone equally and always made sergeants feel like generals," said Wilson County Sheriff Terry Ashe. "He was a soldier's general."

Former Gov. Ned McWherter, who served with the general in the guard and later appointed him to remain The State Adjutant General said everyone in the Guard respected and liked Gen. Wallace. "And that includes me too, he was a great Tennessean."

The traditional caparisoned (riderless) horse follows behind MG Wallace's casket, wearing an empty saddle with the rider's boots reversed in the stirrups.

Lt. Col. Jim Henderson (USAF Ret.) served with Gen. Wallace. He is a 31-year veteran of the Army, Air Force and National Guard and is now the Personnel Director for the City of Lebanon.

"Through one's life we are very fortunate if we meet someone who has a very good profound effect on us, one whom we could classify as 'great.' I had that very privilege in meeting, knowing and working with and for Gen. Wallace. I experienced this on a daily basis, Henderson said.

Larry Kefier, chief executive Officer of University Medical Center, said, "It was a privilege to have known him and call him a friend. We'll miss his big smile. Wilson County has lost a patriot, a great leader and a strong ambassador for our community. Our thoughts and prayers are with Yvonne and, the family. On behalf of all of us here at UMC, we send our deepest sympathy."

"General Wallace's death is a loss to all Tennesseans, and especially to those of us who served with him in the Tennessee National Guard.

"He did more than any Adjutant General in history to mold the Tennessee Army and Air National Guard into the modern, professional organization we are today. He will be truly missed by all who had the privilege to know and work with him," said Maj. Gen. Gus Hargett, The State Adjutant General.

On a personal note, in addition to his numerous other assignments, Major General served as the Commander of the 118th Public Information Detachment (Field Service) and Editor of the Volstate Guard

Noles Named Assistant Adjutant General, Army

Major General Gus Hargett, Tennessee's Adjutant General, announced the promotion to Brigadier General of Colonel J. W. Noles. Brig. Gen. Noles will serve as the Assistant Adjutant General, Army, Tennessee National Guard.

A native of Huntingdon, General Noles served as the G5, Tennessee Army National Guard prior to his appointment as the Assistant Adjutant General. The G5 is the principal staff officer for all matters concerning civil-military operations including Public Affairs and community relations.

He is a graduate of Cumberland University in Lebanon, receiving a BBA degree in Business Administration, and a Masters Degree in Human Relations Management.

General Noles received his commission through Officer Candidate School at Tennessee Military Academy, and graduated from the the Armor Officer Basic and Advanced Courses, and the Command and General Staff College. He is a 1998 graduate of the United States Naval War College.

General Noles served as the Center Commander, 130th Rear Area Operations Center, Headquarters, 2nd United States Army, during Operation Desert Storm. Before his appointment as Assistant Adjutant General, he also served as the Resource Manager and Comptroller for the Tennessee National Guard, and the Commander of the 30th Troop Command in Smyrna.

General Noles and his wife Ann reside in the Nashville area.

Goodrich Named Tennessee Guard's Top Warrant Officer

Major General Gus Hargett, Tennessee's Adjutant General, recently announced the appointment of Chief Warrant Officer 5 John F. (Rickey) Goodrich to the position of Command Chief Warrant Officer for the Tennessee National Guard.

A native of Nashville, CW5 Goodrich served as the State Alcohol and Drug Control Manager, Tennessee Army National Guard prior to his appointment as the Command Chief Warrant Officer. In this position, he is responsible for the oversight of Warrant Officer strength management, career development, Warrant Officer positions, position vacancy and personnel management. His primary mission is to coordinate with State Military Personnel Office, the recruiting and retention office and subordinate commanders to implement comprehensive Warrant Officer Recruiting Program. Additional missions are to establish and maintain Warrant Officer Mentorship and Counselor programs within the state.

He is a graduate of Columbia State College. A Vietnam veteran, CW5 Goodrich was drafted into the United State Army in 1968. He enlisted in the Tennessee Army National Guard in 1972, serving as an enlisted soldier and reached the rank of Sergeant First Class. He was commissioned a Military Personnel Warrant Officer in March 1984.

Mr. Goodrich held the position of Occupational Safety and Health Manager, the Representative 63 coordinator, and served as the State Alcohol and Drug Control Officer for fourteen years. He is the State Headquarters Master Fitness Coordinator. Mr. Goodrich has the distinction of being the first Warrant Officer appointed to the Executive Council of the National Guard Association of Tennessee. For the past four years, CW5 Goodrich has served as the President of the National Guard Bureau Substance Abuse Advisory Council.

30th Troop Command Change of Command

133rd MPAD, Nashville*

Smyrna, TENN. -Congratulations to Col James T. Sipes on his assumption as the Commander of the 30th Troop Command for the Tennessee Army National Guard.

Col. Sipes formally was recognized as commander of the 30th Troop Command on Sunday afternoon in front of the entire 30th Troop Command minus those units that are deployed in support of operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Noble Eagle.

Col Sipes follows Col. Steve P. Austin who retired from military service on September 1, 2003 with 30 years of service.

Col. Austin was commissioned an officer through the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps upon graduation from Tennessee Technological University in August of 1973. All of the soldiers of the 30th Troop Command bid farewell to Col. Austin and he thanked them for all of their support throughout his command.

As a citizen soldier in the Tennessee Army National Guard the incoming commander Col. Sipes is also a Financial Advisor with the Edward Jones Company in Franklin TN. Col. Sipes and his wife Melody have three children; Robert (serving as a 2nd lieutenant at Ft. Sill OK), Trenton (a sophomore at the University of Tennessee), and Sarah (a freshman at Page High School).

The units organized under the 30th Troop Command include Headquarters 30th Troop Command, the 105th Personnel Services Battalion, the 176th Maintenance Battalion, Detachment 1-146th Medical Company (AA), 30th Finance Battalion, 230th Army Liaison Team, and the 168th Military Police Battalion.

Air Force NCO Honors Army Friend at Baghdad Fuel Facility

BAGHDAD INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT, Iraq, Oct. 14, 2003 — Air Force Tech. Sgt. Robert Moore wanted to do something for the friend he had made and lost while serving in Operation Iraqi Freedom. So he requested and got permission to name an airport fuel storage facility after Sgt. Roger Rowe, an Army transportation specialist killed by a sniper July 9.

Moore, a fuels specialist who works at the facility, met Rowe when the latter delivered fuel to the airport. At the time, soldiers did not have a place to get a hot meal, so Moore and Tech. Sgt. Charles Twigg set up a place in their workplace building for the soldiers to get some hot Air Force food.

“The soldiers would eat, and then I would play a movie on my portable DVD player that was hooked up to a big TV. They looked forward to coming to (the airport) for dinner and a movie,” Moore said.

“My sister and a few of my friends back home would send me (brand-name) coffee and, like everything else I had here, I would share with the soldiers. Sgt. Rowe was quite the coffee drinker, and he was very appreciative of how Sgt. Twigg and I treated the soldiers,” Moore said.

“Sgt. Twigg left in July, but I stayed behind so someone would be here to take care of all the soldiers who risk their lives every time they deliver fuel here at BIAP. Without guys like Sgt. Rowe, the Air Force could not fulfill its mission here in Iraq.”

Rowe, a Tennessee National Guardsman with the 1174th Transportation Command, was five days short of his 55th birthday when he died, making him the oldest American casualty since the start of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Moore said he got squadron-level approval easily from his unit, the 447th Expeditionary Logistics Squadron, which had a professionally produced sign made to mark the site.

Rowe was a grandfather of seven and a Vietnam veteran, serving there as an Army surgical technician. His battalion commander, Lt. Col. Billy Taylor, presented his family in Tennessee with a Bronze Star and Purple Heart in a ceremony for the fallen soldier.

Guarding the Tomb

The Third Infantry (Old Guard) at Fort Myer has the responsibility for providing ceremonial units and honor guards for state occasions, White House social functions, public celebrations and interments at Arlington National Cemetery.... and standing a very formal sentry watch at the Tombs of the Unknowns.

The public is familiar with the precision of what is called, "walking post" at the Tombs. There are roped off galleries where visitors can form to observe the troopers and their measured step and almost mechanical silent rifle shoulder changes. They are relieved every hour in a very formal drill that has to be seen to believe. Some people think that when the Cemetery is closed to the public in the evening that this show stops.

First, to the men who are dedicated to this work... it is no show... it is a "charge of honor". The formality and precision continues uninterrupted all night. During the nighttime, the drill of relief and the measured step of the on duty sentry remain unchanged from the daylight hours. To these men... these special men, the continuity of this post is the key to the honor and respect shown to these honored dead, symbolic of all American unaccounted for American combat dead.

The steady rhythmic step in rain, sleet, snow, hail, hot, cold...bitter cold... uninterrupted... is the important part of the honor shown.

Last night, while you were sleeping, the teeth of hurricane Isabel came through this area and tore hell out of everything... We have thousands of trees down... power outages... traffic signals out... roads filled with down limbs and "gear adrift" debris... We have flooding... and the place looks like it has been the impact area of an off shore bombardment.

The Regimental Commander of the U.S. Third Infantry sent word to the nighttime Sentry Detail to secure the post and seek shelter from the high winds, to ensure their personal safety.

THEY DISOBEYED THE ORDER... During winds that turned over vehicles and turned debris into projectiles... the measured step continued. One fellow said "I've got buddies getting shot at in Iraq who would kick my butt if word got to them that we let them down... I'm sure as hell have no intention of spending my Army career being known as the idiot who couldn't stand a little light breeze and shirked his duty." Then he said something in response to a female reporters question regarding silly purposeless personal risk.... "I wouldn't expect you to understand". It's an enlisted man's thing." God Bless the rascal... In a time in our nation's history when spin and total bull seems to have become the accepted coin-of-the-realm, there beat hearts... the enlisted hearts we all knew and were so damn proud to be a part of... that fully understand that devotion to duty is not a part time occupation. While we slept, we were represented by some damn fine men who fully understood their post orders and proudly went about their assigned responsibilities unseen, unrecognized and in the finest tradition of the American Enlisted Man. Folks, there's hope.

A Thank You from the Family of Sgt. Rowe

The Family of Sgt. Roger Rowe wants to thank all the National Guard Units and their Families throughout the State of Tennessee for their kind expression of sympathy. Our Family appreciates and has been overwhelmed with all the flowers, cards, and visits at this time of our sorrow and loss. May God Bless each and everyone of you and we pray for the safe return of all our Troops.

Senate Passes Tricare Amendment

The Senate unanimously agreed to a Guard and Reserve health-care amendment to President Bush's $87 billion supplemental package to fight the war on terrorism.

The proposal would allow uninsured Guardsmen and Reservists to enroll full-time in Tricare, the military's healthcare system.

Offered at the same rate paid by retired military personnel ($330 for a single, enlisted service member), coverage also would include all Guardsmen and Reservists not only once they deploy, but from the moment they receive deployment orders, if they choose.

The issue has been near the top of the NGAUS legislative agenda for two years. Several studies showed that one of five Guardsmen and Reservists have no healthcare coverage. This caused medical and financial hardships and hurt individual and collective readiness.

The issue now moves to conference committee where House and Senate negotiators will determine its fate. The NGAUS believes the issue has the momentum to be included on the bill the Congress sends to president.

House Hearing Reveals Gaps in Health-Care Coverage for Injured Guardsmen

Indiana Air Guard Senior Master Sergeant Robbin Halcomb told a House Committee on Veterans' Affairs hearing this week about the gaps in health-care coverage he experienced while transitioning between duty statuses.

Halcomb, a member of the 181st Fighter Wing, was injured March 8, while stationed at Incirlik Air Force Base, Turkey. After undergoing surgery to repair a shattered right elbow, he returned home in April only to find his request to remain on active duty denied.

In June, he applied for veterans' benefits at his local courthouse. He was told the process would take up to nine months before a final review of his case would be determined. A month later, he was notified to report to Roudebush VA Medical Center in Indianapolis.

Although he received "the very best treatment I have received in any medical facility," he is still awaiting for his claim to be approved.

Although many questions remain unanswered, particularly his coverage status since he cannot remain on active duty, he said he hopes his testimony will press the military to repair this disconnect.

Army Reserve, Guard job center opens

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (Army News Service, Oct. 16, 2003) — The 125,000 Army Reserve and National Guard Soldiers currently mobilized for the war on terror will have help finding jobs when they go home.

The Army Career and Alumni Program Demobilization Center that opened in Alexandria, Va., Sept. 29 will help them find new jobs, said James Hoffman, program director.

“Things change,” Hoffman said. “A Soldier gets home after being mobilized and finds the job he was counting on isn’t there anymore; maybe the company folded, or maybe that Soldier realized he has grown and the old job just wasn’t right any longer.”

The center responds to questions about eligibility for transition services and benefits as well as offer referral to other service providers such as the Department of Labor and Department of State Employment Office and Veterans Affairs.

Program officials are giving reserve-component Soldiers business cards with contact information as they demobilize, Hoffman said.

A returning Reservist or Guardsman can be put in touch with the person who can help by calling 1-877-722-2270 or emailing acap4rc@hoffman.army.mil. Additional details are at www.acap.army.mil.

In addition, Soldiers who want to return to their jobs have reinstatement rights under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act. More information about that can be found at the offices of the Employer Support to the Guard and Reserve at www.esgr.org.
